A photograph of three men in dark suits and white shirts, each holding a framed black and white photograph. They are standing in a row, slightly behind each other, against a light-colored, textured background. The overall image has a warm, sepia-toned aesthetic.

Long after the strings have fallen silent,
After the pages are turned,
After the basses and cellos lie in disrepair,
After the bows fall severed and cracked,
After the chairs strewn in disarray,

A photograph of three men in dark suits and white shirts, clapping their hands. They are seated and looking towards the right. The background is a light, textured surface. The overall image has a warm, sepia-toned aesthetic.

We will remember the endless hours
The countless jokes
And ultimately the fine artisans
Behind the baton.

For this trio of men for whom wordly descriptions fail,
We thank you for your tireless commitment.
